excellent

Excellent book for supplications.

This is the basic Dua book all Muslims need these days, especially with the rush and stree of modern life. A small and slim volume, easy to read. Simple, no frills collection of Dua' (supplications, prayers of need and emergencies, protection etc) for the believer's everyday life. Includes english translation, but no comentary (these are very simple Dua's so you really don't need any). I haven't read all of it yet but so far it seems more than adequate for most people's needs (unless you aspire to become a shaykh and want to memorize every dua' that the Prophet (saw) ever said, but in that case you probably should be looking into a more niche bookstore.)It really makes you think hard about whether you've really been reaching your potential in this life. This isn't a cushy "wait for things to happen" book. The translation and intro is rock solid and forces you to think hard about your choices and how they affect both yourself and others, the standard of positive action ethics you must hold yourself to in work, family, and life overall if you want your Dua's to be answered instead of just blindly going through the motions.I haven't read the other IqraSense books (power of Dua, Hajj rituals, etc.) but if this book is any clue, the others should also be really good. My only gripe so far is how short it is and the limited amount of background text (i.e. sometimes it seems that two dua from this collection are equally appropriate for a particular situation and the book doesn't go into a lot of detail about choosing which one to recite primarily.)

I absolutely love this book. Thank you for making it. Peace and blessings.
