100 Flowers From The RHS: 100 Postcards In A Box

Synopsis

The Libraries of the Royal Horticultural Society hold the world's finest collection of printed material on gardens and gardening and a selection of the best botanical paintings from this collection is featured here. One Hundred Flowers from the RHS gathers together the most striking images to create 100 different postcards to send, keep, or frame. The earliest works of art date from the late 17th or early 18th century, and are by an anonymous Italian artist; the latest are from the middle of the 20th century.

Customer Reviews

The RHS Lindley Libraries hold several collections of drawings made by Asian artists, whether made for the export market to Europe, commissioned by British officials, or, in recent times, made by amateur and professional artists for exhibition and sale in the international market for botanical art. This diary contains examples from some of these collections.

The quality of both paper and print is superb. It's one of those things that you enjoy holding in your hands. There is also something touching and refined about the drawings themselves. 20$? I would pay 40$ if I had to.

Very pleased with beautiful postcards. I almost didn't buy them because I didn't see anything about the size of the postcards - the box- but not the cards - I was concerned they might be over sized but they are standard postcard size.

Great postcards, sturdy and beautiful. The written part is matte and can take fountain pen ink very well. I use my Iroshizuku Yama Budo ink and it shades soooo beautifully.

These are of gorgeous quality. Strong card stock, beautiful drawings, every ONE is different, with a latin description on the back. I would definitely get these again.

I was amazed at the quality of these postcards. They are heavier than "tourist" postcards, the artwork is lovely, and they come in a sturdy, decorative and reusable box. The number provided for the price is amazing.

Made it so easy to write daily to a much loved friend who is suffering from a serious illness. She loves flowers and grows many of the ones sent on the postcards. Thank you for the opportunity.

These are perfect to have on hand for a nice change from texting!

Arrived on time in great condition. I used these for my wedding guest book. There is not 2 of the same postcard so everyone's card was unique.
