Fifty Psychic Predictions For 2018 And Beyond

Synopsis

One of America's closest allies becomes its new enemy. The President is reelected--in 2018. The real danger from North Korea is not nuclear, chemical, or biological weapons. It's worse. The Queen's dominions shrink. There will be two small windows in which a bill to impeach President Trump might get out of committee. If there is no action during these two windows, he is secure for the rest of his term. America's economic boom goes bust for a surprising reason that small investors will be able to see in advance. Plus many, many more predictions that can make a difference in your life in 2018. Thank you for reading my book. I am a psychic reader who does readings for clients. I don't have any particular technique. I don't do tarot cards. I don't have a crystal ball. I don't do astrology. I don't do remote viewing. And I don't go to psychic fairs. The people who are supposed to be in my life just show up, as I just show up in theirs. I don't charge a set fee, or necessarily anything at all, but my clients act from the kindness and generosity of their hearts. My last name means "let's just follow God." I follow my God-given intuition. I have just always as long as I can remember had really vivid intuition about things that aren't immediately visible in the here and now. Only God can see the future, of course, but we humans have the ability to see a likely future, and it is that likely future that this book is about. I did set out to write a book of predictions about things that are on course to happen in 2018 and 2019. I just sat down and talked with a few hundred of my clients about their lives. As we talked about their futures, however, certain topics came up again and again. Some of them are things people in general need to know in order to be prepared. That is why I wrote this book. That is why I am publishing it. That is why I hope you read it.
